

Oakville...BY...The Lake

The frequent traveller between Toronto and Hamilton by the southern division of the Grand Trunk railway becomes familiar with the call by the brakemen: "Oakville! Oakville!" As one looks from the window he sees a pretty panorama of church spires and shaded homes, with, perhaps, a glimpse of the blue lake beyond, but the traveller can only ascertain by a personal call what a charming spot has been chosen have given place to fertile fields; the rude loghouse is replaced by the substantial residence, and the present possessors of land are enjoying a rich inheritance, which cost a generation of human life to secure. It is a suggestive fact that many counties in Ontario boast of each being "the garden of Canada." And more than one can advance evidence to support the flattering title. Of course, it follows that those who reside in and near Oakville for the site of this highly-favored town. And the lozenge one lingers, the more reluctant he is to leave, for here may be found long avenues of maples, cool lake breezes and hospitable homes. The drive of a mile or more between the railway station and the town winds along the high bluff that marks the course of Sixteen-Mile river, and the orchards that stretch out beyond form a fitting background to the lovely picture.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The town of Oakville is in the county of Halton, about midway between Toronto and Hamilton. The founders evidently appreciated the harbor advantages afforded by the entrance of Sixteen-Mile river into Lake Ontario, for the water is navigable for quite a little distance from the lake. The larger portion of the town, and especially the business part, lies eastward of "the river." The valley is narrow, and the bluffs on either side rise to a sufficient height to give elevation for pleasant homes, and secure a broad outlook across the lake to the low mountain range running parallel with its southern shore. It is no surprise to learn that Oakville has long been popular as a summer resort; on the contrary, the wonder is that the place is not overrun with tourists in search of rest, amid pleasant surroundings.

The historian tells us that Oakville was, in its early days, a most important port for the shipment of the fine oak timber that once covered the now fertile farms of Halton and adjoining counties, and that this lucrative trade suggested to the late Hon. R. B. Baldwin, then commissioner of crown lands, the idea of calling the harbor "Oakville," which it has borne ever since. As early as 1850 the harbor was completed so as to admit vessels of considerable draught, and during the succeeding years many a valuable cargo of timber, lumber and staves was shipped to Quebec for the home and foreign market. Now, however, things are greatly changed in many respects. The forests claim to be the original "gardeners," and they point to their fertile belt, so perfectly adapted to fruit culture, that the country for miles along the lake shore is one unbroken succession of gardens. Here the strawberry revels in a soil so adapted to perfect growth that the yield is phenomenal. In the height of the season the trains are laden with the luscious fruit, the very air is filled with fragrance, and thousands of nimble fingers are busy the live-long day gathering delicacies for distant city tables. It follows that fruit culture includes raspberries, plums, apples, pears, cherries, etc., and farming is much more profitable and pleasant than in localities where grain-growing prevails. In addition to Oakville's pretty surroundings, there is to be mentioned the fact that, being located on the north shore of Lake Ontario, secures the advantage of cool breezes on days when less-favored individuals on the opposite shore are sweltering in the heat.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

MAYOR PATTERSON.

The town has a population of about 2,000, and there must be both wealth and good taste in an unusual degree, for there are, proportionately, a greater number of fine residences and ample and well-kept lawns than are to be found in many places of far greater pretensions.

W. H. YOUNG, J.E.

The town council for 1893 is composed of the following gentlemen:—Thomas Patterson, mayor; C. W. Anderson, Reeve; John Macdonald, deputy reeve; C. G. Marlatt, W. H. Cronkrite, W. H. Young, P. Kelly, John Kelly, Wm. Mathews, Robt. Howes, John Wales and W. H. Robinson, England; Rev. Father Burke, Roman Catholic. The names of those in charge of the Disciples, Baptists and Salvation Army were not obtained for publication. As education is a most important factor in any town's substantial progress, it is satisfactory to note that Oakville possesses most efficient high and public schools. Both are situated in a large and commodious building, which is shown elsewhere. Mr. N. J. Wellwood is principal of the high school, and Dr. C. H. Lusk is his assistant; Mr. Henry Hubbard wields the sceptre in the public schools, and his assistants are Mrs. Street, Miss M. Cook, Miss M. Brown, Miss Mary Lucas and Miss Earl.

Just here is an appropriate place to insert a paragraph in reference to the Mechanics' Institute. Accommodation is found in a well-fitted room in the high school building, and Mr. Wellwood, the principal thereof, keeps everything in such perfect order that the institution is one in which every citizen feels justifiable pride. The library has been judiciously selected, and the people show that appreciation and intelligence by patronizing it well.

JOHN MACDONALD, DEPUTY REEVE.

The one imperative need of Oakville is a system of water-works. This want is as successfully met as can be by any mere expedient by eight or ten reservoirs in different parts of the town. The fire engine in use is a hand one, and the brigade is voluntary. Mr. H. Kelly is chief thereof.

The town is excellently lighted by electricity; the streets are shaded by luxuriant maples, the adjacent lake invites the fisherman to try his luck, and the very pretty park, in which a portion of the primitive forest remains, completes a list of attractions that ought surely to be sufficient to induce readers of The Globe to tarry awhile amid such surroundings.

PUBLIC SCHOOL.

OAKVILLE, FROM THE HARBOR.

It must not be inferred that everybody in town is "on pleasure bent." The main street (Colborne) is a fine thoroughfare. On it are several hotels, a number of capital stores, including dry goods, hardware, gent's furnishings, drug stores, harness stores, butchers', bankers', bakers', telephone and telegraph offices, etc., besides the mills, stores, tanneries and factories shown more prominently in detail in the description given of the town.

To this must be added the fact that Oakville market has long been noted as being one of the very best west of Toronto. There are three large elevators, with a united capacity of 100,000 bushels, conveniently situated at the harbor, and Mr. John Wales, a member of the town coun-

RESIDENCE MAYOR PATTERSON.

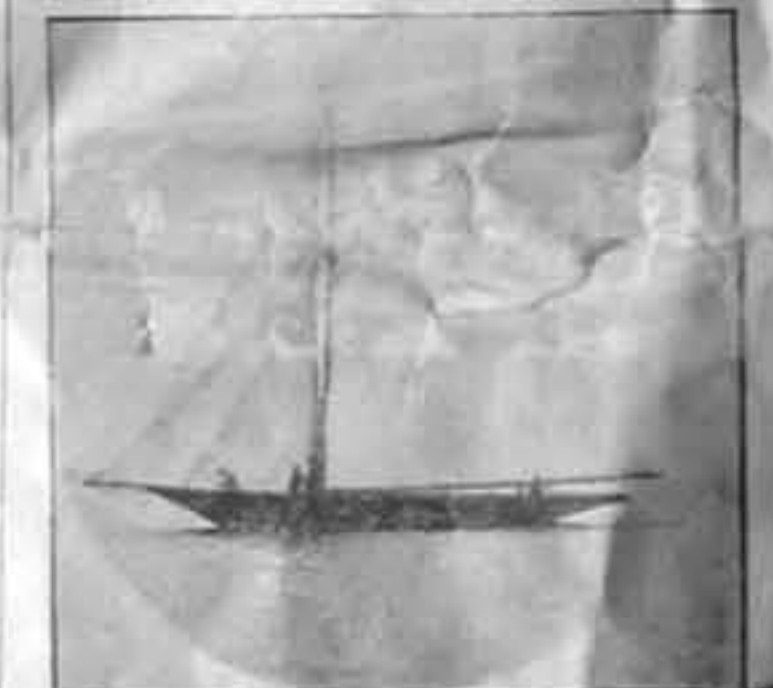

for there are Sons of Scotland, Masons, A.O.U.W., Oddfellows, Foresters, Young Britons, Orangemen, Royal and Knight Templars, and, perhaps, some unenumerated.

All this simply means that nature has been lavish in making the subject of this sketch a pleasant abiding place, and if attention is directed to these advantages so effectively as to induce those in search of a suitable place to locate to take a look for themselves, our labor will not be in vain.

SALE & MARLATT.

This firm is extensively engaged in tanning and in the manufacture of a large variety of leather goods. The members of the firm are Mr. Julian Sale, for some years actively engaged in the manufacture of leather goods in Toronto, and Mr. Wilbur T. Marlatt of the Oakville Leather company. In this age of concentration it would seem that a combination of tanning in its various branches with the manufacture of various kinds of leather goods, is a peculiarly happy idea, which the experience of Messrs. Sale & Marlatt since the establishment of the new cell, and successful merchant, has long been a prominent figure on the grain market.

MR. MARLATT'S YACHT.

C. W. ANDERSON.

S. D. MARLATT.

Reference was made at the outset of this article to the proximity of the Grand Trunk railway, of which Oakville is the most important station between Toronto and Hamilton. Another means of egress and ingress is the Hamilton & Toronto fine steamboat line, the boats of which call each way while en route. With these excellent facilities, it is no surprise to learn that a number of business men of Toronto make Oakville their family home and attend their offices without inconvenience. A view of the harbor was taken by

ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH.

METHODIST CHURCH.

MORRIS FUEL CO. ASHTON'S DRUG STORE ANDERSON'S BASK.

STAR OFFICE.

BARCLAY'S STORE.

firm fully endorses their business having steadily advanced in volume since that time. Their extensive factory of four flats is heated by steam and lighted throughout with the latest system of incandescent electricity. On the basement floor are the vats and tanks used in tanning and dyeing the various kinds of leather used, and the visitor may, if he will, follow the raw skins through the various and fancy leather goods department. Here are toy purses for children, worth a few cents, and the finest of pocket-books, card-cases, etc., for ladies and gentlemen, in the manufacture of which a high class of skilled labor is employed. Upon the same floor is the leather-finishing department. The finer leathers are here subjected to the final processes of finishing. Here are leathers of all kinds and colors, ready for use in the other departments.

A large portion of the third flat is devoted to the manufacture of travelling-bags of all kinds and the heavier goods generally. Although the department has been running for only a year, the goods are already known from Halifax to Vancouver. Adjoining is a large room in which are made footballs, cricketballs, processes of tanning, dyeing and finishing until they appear in one department embodied in a handsome travelling bag or in another in the most delicately-finished, silver-trimmed, ladies' card-case.

C. G. MARLATT.

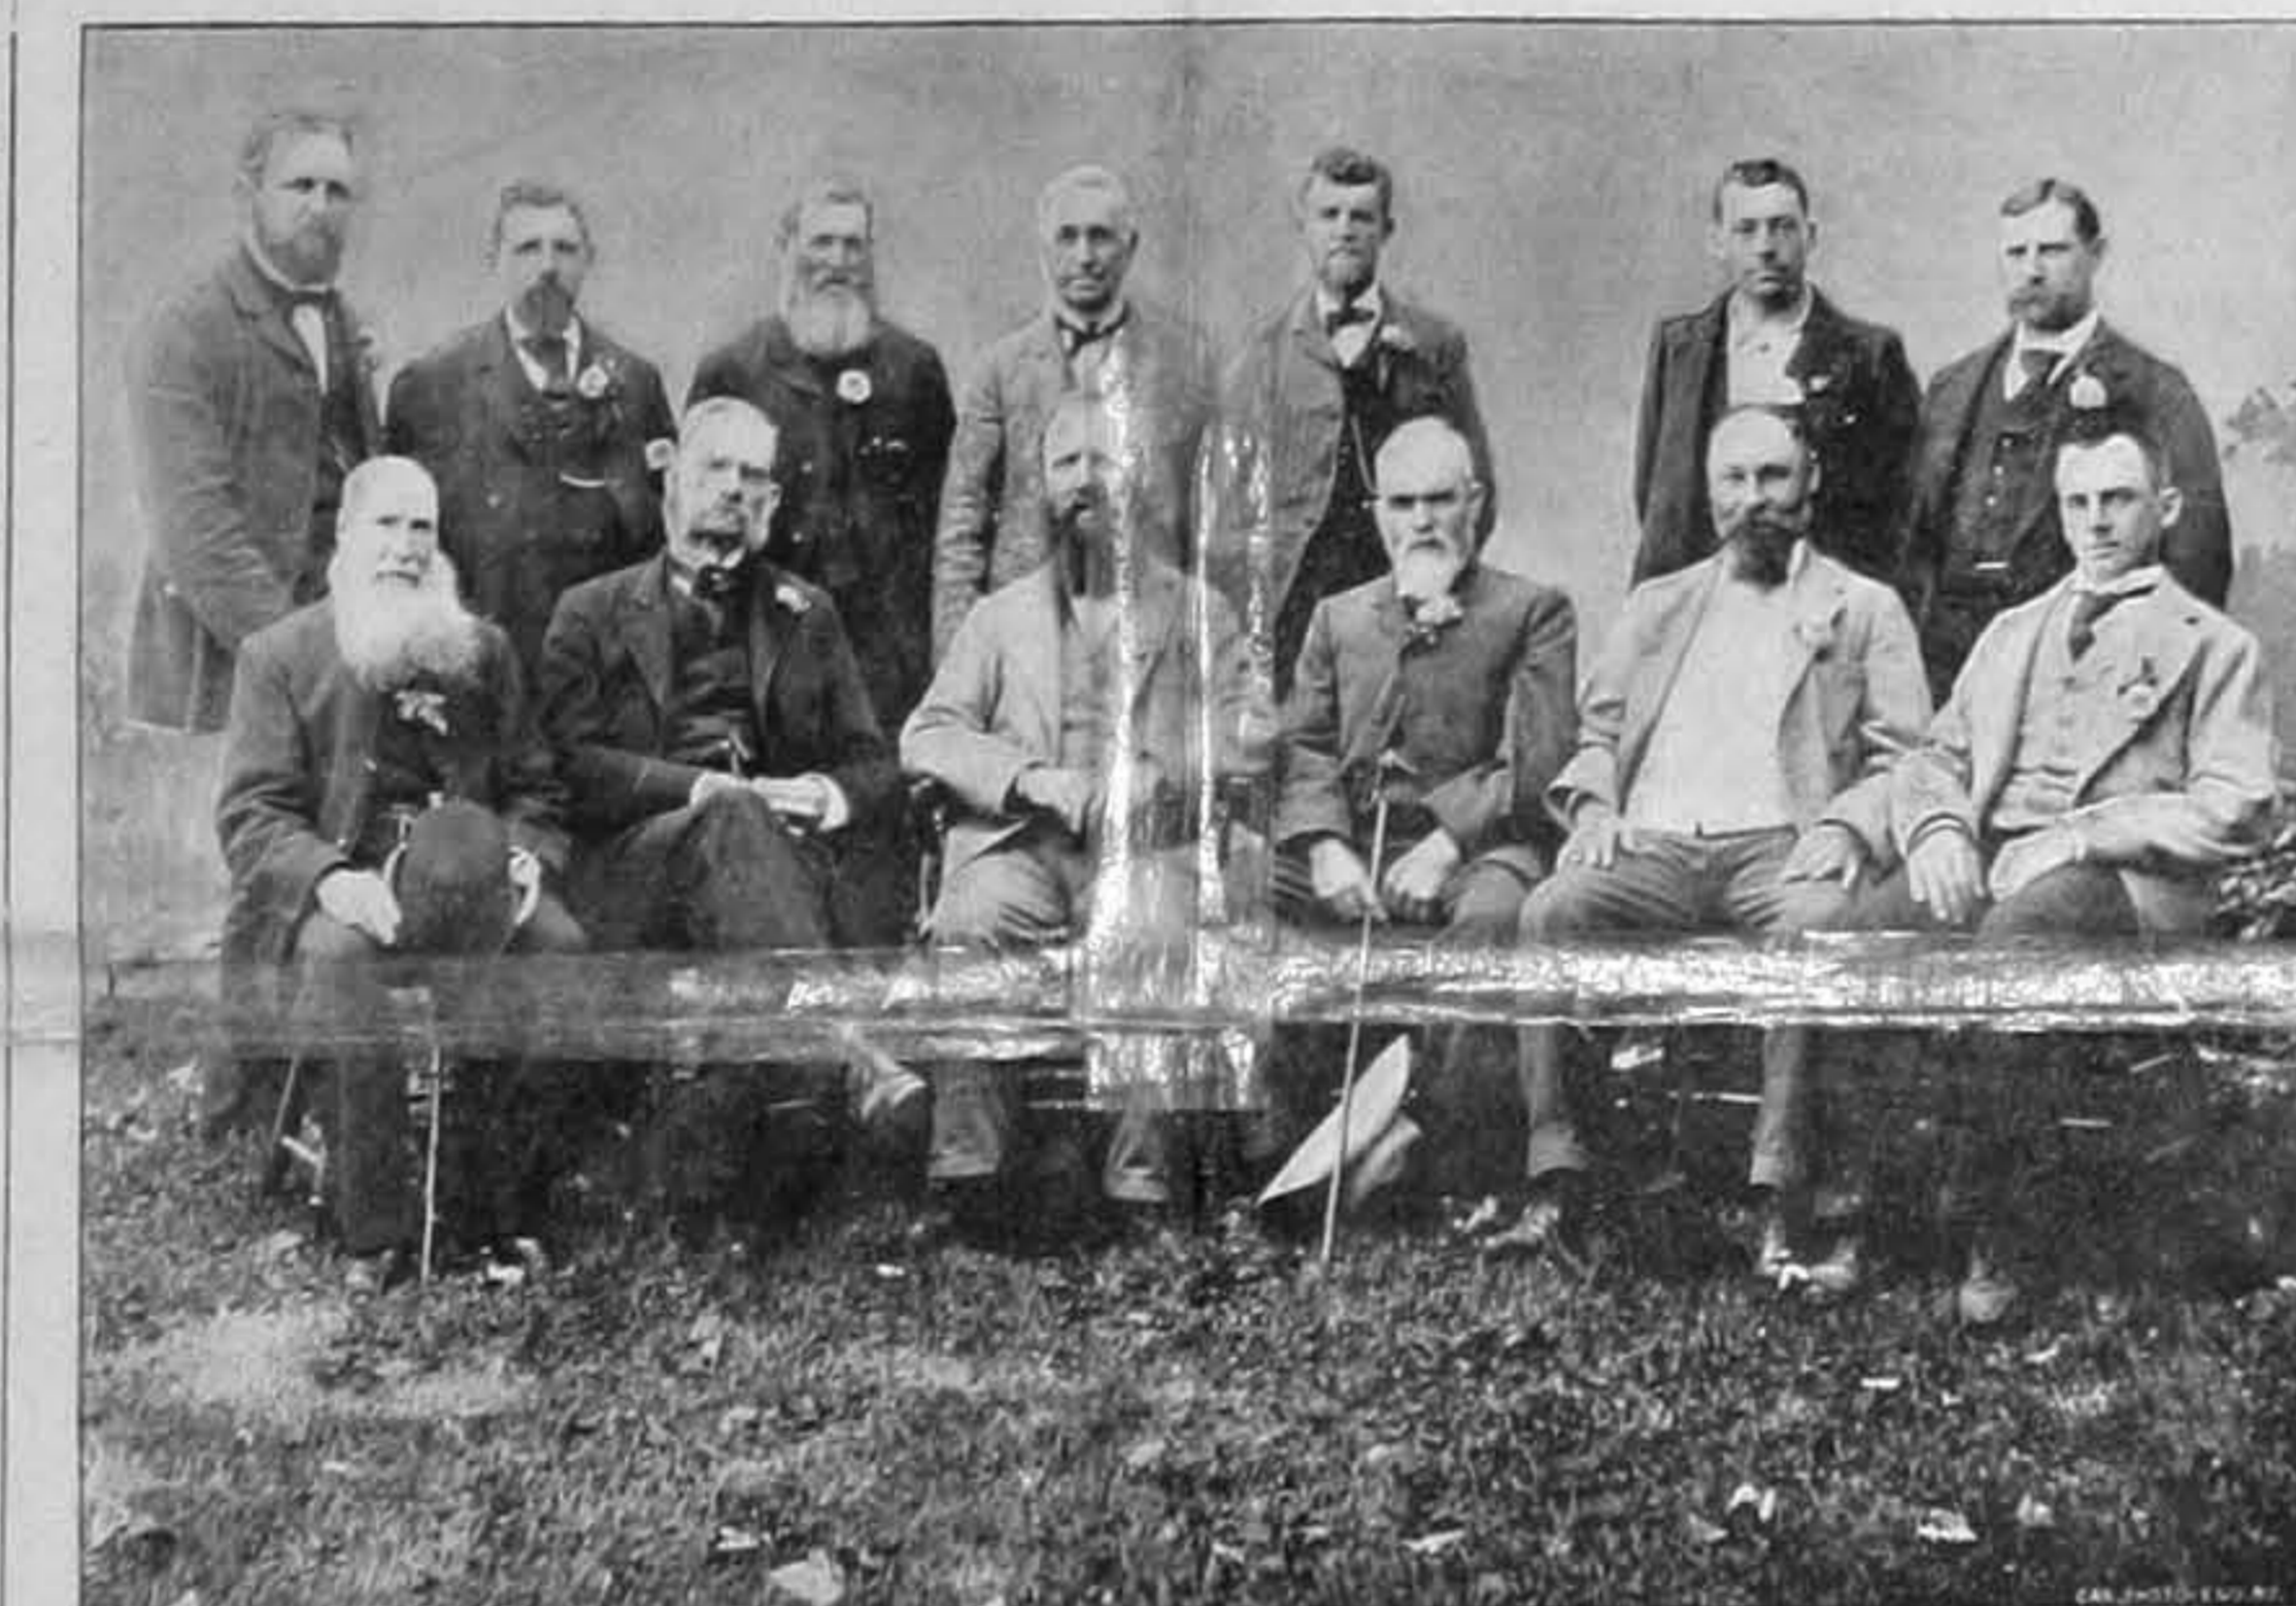

JULIAN SALE.

On a level with the basement floor, in an adjoining fire-proof building, is the engine and boiler necessary for the transmission of power to the various departments and for heating. Upon the ground floor are the office, shipping department and stock room, the latter containing the finished products of the firm in an astonishing variety.

On the second floor is the pocket book collar and cuff boxes, for all of which articles there is a steady demand. Upon entering another room on this flat we find an entirely different line of goods. But from the rattle of the numerous machines

C. G. Marlatt, John Macdonald, Wm. Cronkite, Robt. Balmer, Clerk, S. B. Gantor, Treas., John Kelly, W. J. Robinson, Wm. Matthews, W. H. Young, Mayor Patterson, Robt. Howse, John Wales, Peter Kelly.

OAKVILLE TOWN COUNCIL, CLERK AND TREASURER.

and the general activity prevailing it is by no means the least important. Here elastic webs and great sides of leather are being converted into suspenders by the rapidly-moving little machines in great quantities.

With each of these departments under the supervision of a thoroughly-competent ex-Ald. Turner of Toronto, and the wisdom of the choice cannot be questioned. The grounds comprise six acres of wood, lawn, garden and conservatories, and the whole makes a suitable paradise. The location is on the bank of the lake, on which it has a frontage of 600 feet, and the bank is terraced to the beach. The Trunk railway and the lake steamers give easy access, and the inmates enjoy perfect quiet, pure air and skilful treatment. The fact that four-fifths of those now in attendance were influenced by former patients to come is the best possible evidence of the character of the institution. The treatment, down to the minutest de-manager, and with each member of the firm thoroughly acquainted with all the details of the work, the success of their business seems assured.

A. S. FORSTER.

LAKEHURST GOLD CURE. The Ontario Double Chloride of Gold Cure company has leased for a term of years the charming home at Oakville of house is luxuriously furnished, and taken all in all, there is not a more delightful spot in Canada than "Lakehurst." The company claims to be the pioneers in Canada of the gold cure movement, their first sanitarium having been established at Grimsby in 1892. Their present quarters are in every way fitted for the purposes to which they are devoted. The Grand trails is directed by a skilful medical practitioner, whose professional efforts have been attended in all cases with the happiest results. The company has an office at room 35, Bank of Commerce building, Toronto, where also all information can be obtained. A view of Lakehurst accompanies this article.

C. ARMSTRONG.

E. R. ANDERSON.

G. J. SUMNER, HARBOR MASTER.

CHAR. E. ANDERSON.

ROBINSON'S STORE.

MR. J. G. SUMNER.

Mr. Sumner has been a resident of Oakville for fifty-nine years, and is one of their most respected and best-known citizens. He has been the harbor master for many years, and holds the positions of tax collector and chief constable, as well.

MR. PETER KELLY.

Is a member of the town council and chairman of the fire and water committee. Mr. Kelly is a self-made man, and, although young in years, has one of the largest furniture, wagon, vehicle, implement and pump businesses in Oakville, and it is to his energy, push and straightforward business methods that his success is due. He occupies and owns a hand-

He is a man in the prime of life, and it is safe to predict for the subject of this brief sketch a successful and highly-useful career.

MR. JOHN KELLY.

Is an Oakville boy, and the youngest member of the town council, also one of the finance committee, and, while in years but a young man, he conducts one of the most successful hardware, tin, paint and oil businesses in the town. In the mercantile line he succeeds his father, who was also a member of the council for several years.

JOHN KELLY.

CANON WORRELL, M.A.

Rector of St. Jude's church, has been a resident for upwards of twenty-four years, removing here from Oshawa. Educated at King's college, London, where he took the degree of B.A., receiving the degree of M.A. from Trinity college, Toronto, some years later. He was raised to a canon while officiating at the Episcopal cathedral, Kingston.

MARLATT & ARMSTRONG manufacture patent and assembled leather, making a specialty of carriage and saddlery leather. The Oakville patent leather is of a superior quality, and is well known all over Canada, and also in foreign markets. The business is an old-some, three-story and basement, solid-brick building on the corner of Colborne and Dunn streets.

PETER KELLY.

REV. C. C. CRAIG.

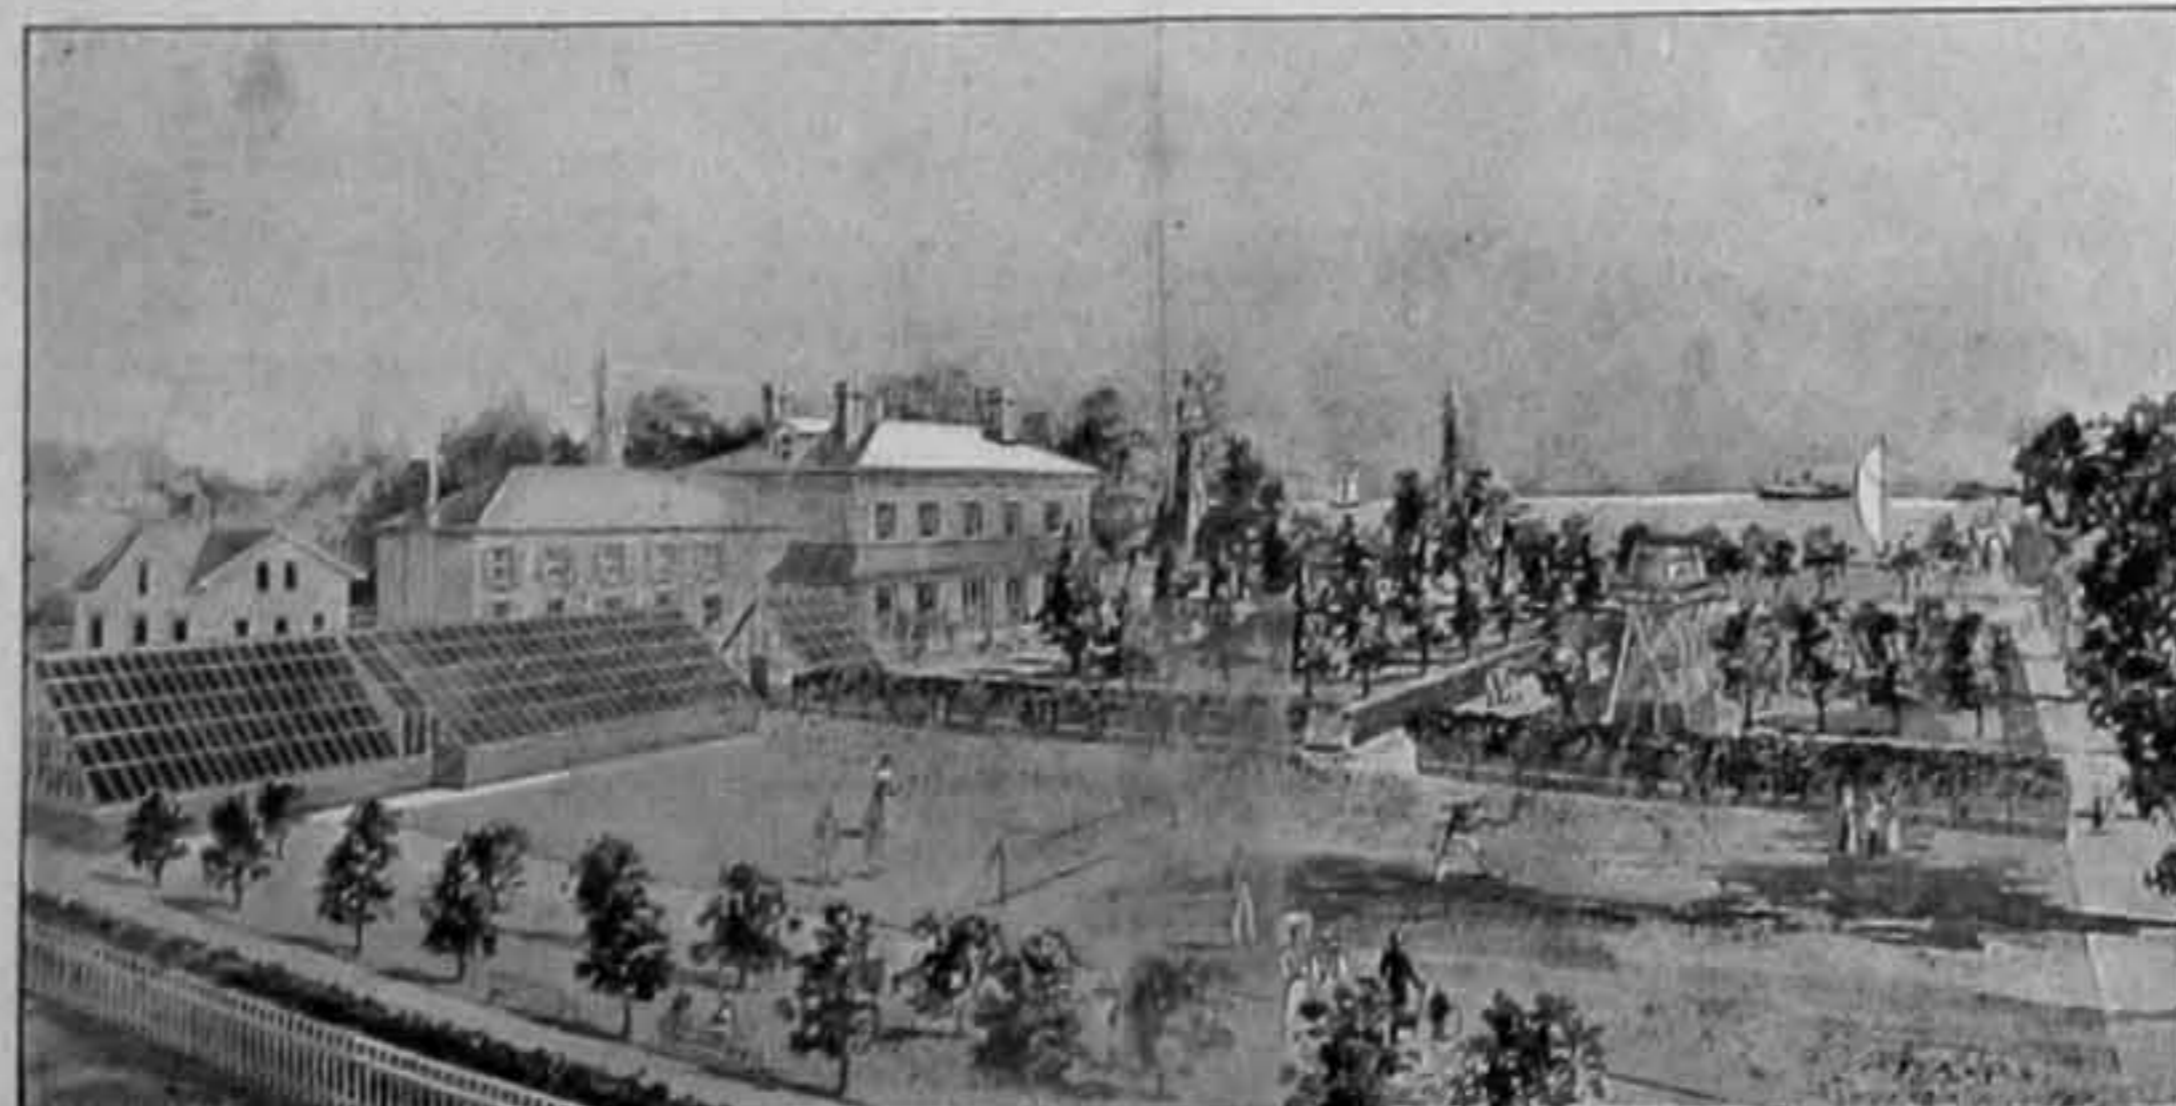

This gentleman has been the pastor of the Presbyterian church for two years past, and in that brief period has won the esteem and confidence of his flock by his excellent pulpit ministrations and active sympathy with everything designed to advance the religious interests of the town. Mr. Craig was a delegate to the recent Christian Endeavor convention in Montreal, where he took an active part.

RESIDENCE OF W. H. YOUNG.

RESIDENCE JOHN MACDONALD.

"LAKEHURST" GOLD CURE.

RESIDENCE C. G. MARLATT.

RESIDENCE MR. BALMER, J.P.

W. H. YOUNG'S STORE.

MR. ANDERSON'S RESIDENCE.

successfully that now everything is running with new and improved machinery, and with greatly-increased capacity. The material used is obtained from the reserve timber of the farmers in the county, and the goods possess such a reputation for excellence that a demand has been created over the whole Dominion and beyond. The demand is especially great in Quebec. The material employed comprises elm, basswood, hickory, soft maple, etc., and Mr. Ford gives his personal supervision to the selection and manufacture, so that everything that bears the Oak-for many years been the efficient clerk, and a view of "Fernhurst," the Balmor home, is also given. Mr. Balmer has always taken a deep interest in the town where he has spent so many years of his life, and where he is universally respected.

WAL. MATHEWS.

This gentleman is one of Oakville's most-respected citizens, both as a member of the council and business man. He has now retired from active work, but takes a deep interest in public matters. His

Mr. Harris was born in the county of Halton, and is the last of the descendants of the well-known late Caleb Hopkins, M.P. for that county. Mr. Harris attended the common and high schools of Halton, finishing his education in Hamilton, in which city he practised dentistry for six years, afterward removing to Oakville, where in the last twenty years he has built up one of the most extensive practices in the county, and is looked upon as one of their most successful practitioners.

T. H. HARRIS.

N. J. WELLWOOD.

Principal Oakville High School. Mr. N. J. Wellwood is Irish by birth, becoming a resident of this country in his early youth, receiving the first part of his education at the common and high schools of Oakawa and Whitby, Ont., after which he attended and graduated from the Toronto university, fitting himself for the high position he now holds, which position he has held for the past fifteen or sixteen years, and the success that has attended his work is best shown in the ability displayed by the many students

Pice Ash Sideboard for $6.50

LAST WEEK WE REPORTED THE ARRIVAL OF Bedroom Suites of all grades. This week it is... SIDEBOARDS. Sideboards without mirrors at $6.50, $7.50, $10, $12, $15, $17.50, $20—in Antique Oak or Dark finish. Sideboards in oak, $20, $22, $25, $35, $40, $50, $60 to $100. Sideboards in Birch, cherry finish, $20 to $25. Walnut Sideboards $30, $35, $45, $60, and on up to the higher figures—all good, well made, well finished. Our reputation for having a big supply of fancy Parlor Suites, Couches, Lounges and Giant's Easy Chairs is away up. We invite inspection. Goods shipped free of freight charges. Send for Catalogue.

C. F. ADAMS CO.,

The Home Furnishers, 175-179 Yonge Street, Toronto. C. S. CORVELL, Manager.

MARLATT & ARMSTRONG'S TANNERY.

SUMMER RESIDENCE OF MR. JAMES BOOMER, Manager Manchester Insurance Company, Toronto.

ville stamp is all in quality. Mr. J. C. Ford's photo is given in this connection. He is a young man, who has had a thorough business training, and his whole energies are devoted to making the company in which he is a stockholder and manager a pronounced success. The industry is a most important one, for it not only gives employment to a number of hands in the town, but also distributes considerable money among those who have been wise enough to hold standing timber for present use.

home is a model of comfort, and he richly enjoys the well-earned leisure that only that have been under his careful training, and have left the high school to fill some most important positions, and the success of many an Oakville youth who has passed from the doors of Oakville high school may be credited to this gentleman's efforts in preparing them for the duties of their professional or business life.

MR. N. J. WELLWOOD.

THE MORDEN FUEL CO. This concern occupies an office that is a model of neatness and beauty, although such prosaic articles as coal, wood, lime, tile, etc., are dealt in. The company has two coal houses at the harbor, and therefore, vessels can receive or discharge cargoes direct. Capt. G. H. Morden, the senior member of the firm, is an old resident, and is widely known. He has a the goods were imported from the United States. These goods are shipped all over the Dominion, being represented in every town and city from Vancouver to Halifax. The fact that they are supported by the leading express and cartage companies should be commendation enough as to the superiority of their goods. From a small beginning, by energy, hard work, skillful and well-executed work and square dealing, they intend to lead the van. The manufacturing is superintended by Mr. J. G. Terry, formerly of the naval yards, England. In 1882 and 1883 they exhibited their tarpaulin goods at the Toronto and Ottawa fairs, and received the highest awards.

THE MORDEN FUEL CO.

Arthur S. Forster. This gentleman is proprietor and editor of The Star, a weekly independent newspaper, which is devoted to the interests of the town and county, irrespective of party lines. Mr. Forster is an active member of the Canadian Press association, and is known among his colleagues as "the baby member of the association." In consequence of his extreme youth on entering journalism, he is also an enthusiastic worker in the cause of temperance, and wields a sturdy pen in the advocacy of better highways. With such a field of usefulness open, one feels like predicting for Arthur, as his friends familiarly call him, a brilliant future. The office of The Star and a photograph of its master-spirit are shown among its illustrations.

ARTHUR S. FORSTER.

W. H. Young, J.P. Oakville boasts of no more enterprising and respected citizen than Squire Young. He is now in advanced years, and his lot has been closely identified with that of the town from his infancy. On several occasions he has been reeve and councillor, and still holds this mark of confidence. He was police magistrate under the Scott act, and as a justice of the peace he most worthily fills a position that specially demands tact and good judgment. Mr. Young's home is a fine brick block on Colborne street belonging to him add materially to the value of our illustrations. Many friends far and near will recognize Mr. Young's genial face.

W. H. YOUNG, J.P.

John Barclay, Merchant. One of the most prominent commercial landmarks of the town is the Barclay store, at the corner of Colborne and Navy streets. The business has been established fully half a century, and if one man more than another stands higher in the esteem of his fellow citizens, it is John Barclay. He came to Trafalgar from Scotland, the land of his birth, in 1822, and in 1847 to Oakville, and six years after entered on a successful mercantile career. The present stock comprises staple and fancy dry goods, ordered clothing and groceries. Mr. Barclay is ably assisted by his son Robert, who has charge of the tailoring department, and is the exclusive buyer for the dry goods section. Mr. Barclay is a member of the school board, and is always ready and willing to assist in furthering the best educational, material and moral interests of the town. The store occupies a prominent place among the illustrated features of this issue of The Globe, and it may be well to add one fact, and that is that Mr. Barclay's aim is to always furnish first-class goods, and thus his customers place implicit reliance on his guarantee of quality.

J. BARCLAY, MERCHANT.

Robinson Bros. These gentlemen comprise a firm that was organized in 1880, and which already occupies a leading position in the mercantile line. Their fine store is one of the prominent features of Colborne street, and their leading specialties are ready-made and ordered clothing. The latter is the prominent feature of their extensive trade. A thoroughly-qualified cutter is employed, and ten to fifteen hands execute his orders, and thus a goodly sum is expended in wages in the town. Mr. W. H. Robinson, the elder brother of the firm, is a member of the town council, and in this capacity takes a deep interest in the welfare of his constituents. The store and a photo of Mr. W. H. Robinson have a place among the illustrations given elsewhere.

REV. S. & CRAIG.

T. A. REYNOLDS.

Mr. Thomas A. Reynolds, the subject of the above sketch, has been a resident of Oakville for the past 45 years, and is one of its most prominent citizens, having always taken a deep interest in the town's welfare, having been a member of the high school board, an ex-deputy reeve, and is now chairman of the separate school board, besides being a justice of the peace and one of the county license inspectors; in fact, his public services have been so continuous that his fellow-townsmen call him a mischief-maker without a portfolio. He is at present actively engaged in the coal, wood and millers' supply business, being the manager of the Oakville Fuel Co.

JOHN MACDONALD.

This gentleman conducts a most successful butchering business in town, and also owns and manages a tip-top farm just outside the limits. A leading specialty of the farming operations is the feeding of high-class cattle, for the home and outside market, and thus his customers get the highest quality of family supplies. Mr. Macdonald is a Scotchman, and has in his own language, "beed his own reeve." He is a member of the town council, and in every respect an energetic and successful citizen, and it is his boast that he has read The Globe for twenty years. A photo of Mr. Macdonald and his fine home are among our illustrations.

THE OAKVILLE HOUSE.

A business town or a summer home needs comfortable hotel quarters, and this was supplied by this establishment. The Oakville is at the corner of Colborne and Navy streets, in the business centre. Mr. Murray H. Williams has been the proprietor for five years. The hotel is large and well equipped, is lighted by electricity, has electric bells, telephone and all modern conveniences and sanitary appliances. The rates are $1 to $1.50. This meets all trains. In brief, the traveller who becomes Mr. Williams' guest is assured of hospitable treatment.

C. W. ANDERSON & SONS, BANKERS.

As there are no chartered banks in Oakville, it becomes all the more necessary that banking facilities should be supplied, and this most important place is worthily filled by the Andersons, who make a specialty of collections for correspondents everywhere. The very name inspires con-established one, and the volume of trade done by the firm is constantly increasing. The firm is composed of S. D. Marlatt, C. Armstrong and C. G. Marlatt, all of whom have been members of the town council, and take great interest in the welfare of the town.

W. T. MARLATT.

THE OAKVILLE BASKET CO.

The company which operates this important industry is a joint stock one, its members being all local business men. The present company was organized in January, 1892, as a successor to P. Doty & Son, with Mr. J. C. Ford as manager. The output of the factory comprises strawberry, raspberry, peach, plum and grape baskets, and also measuring baskets, gardeners' plant boxes, lunch and clothes baskets, etc. The company's premises were destroyed by fire in April, 1891, but the characteristic energy, the work of reconstruction was pushed so

JAS. C. FORD.

REV. FATHER BURKE.

The Rev. Father Burke was born in the parish of Dundas, and is now comparatively a young man, being in his thirty-fourth year. He attended the Galt Collegiate Institute, after which he was a student at St. Michael's college, Toronto, and during the seven years of his ministry has been one of the most successful priests. He is an earnest worker in the temperance cause, and takes a strong interest in all social reforms. He is of the most genial disposition, and has always been beloved by his parishioners. His first work in the priesthood was at Arthur, Ont., as assistant, after which he was at Galt, and later took full charge as parish priest at Macdon, Ont., and last October was sent to Oakville, which was a mark of the high appreciation in which his services are held in the church, for which he so faithfully labors.

REV. FATHER BURKE.

ROBERT BALMER, J.P.

A photo of this gentleman appears in the group of the council, of which he has comes to those who have cultivated the mind, while providing for a rainy day.

WILLIAM MATHEWS.

MAYOR THOS. PATTERSON.

This gentleman has risen to his present enviable position by his own unaided efforts, and now there is not a more successful merchant or efficient municipal officer-bearer in Oakville than Mayor Patterson. He was born in Kerriemuir, Scotland, since immortalized by J. M. Barrie as the scene of his "Window in Thrums." He came to Canada in 1862, and soon after settled in Oakville, with which his interest has ever since been closely identified. He has been elected councillor several times, and has been otherwise active in public life. All this, however, has not been permitted to lessen his interest in mercantile affairs, and thus Mr. Patterson is a typical Canadian-Scotchman, a class of men who are a desirable acquisition to any country. A view is given of the subject of this sketch, and also of his home on Navy street.

MR. T. H. HARRIS, DENTIST.

We often have to bear pain in order to drive away pain, and Mr. Harris, although of a sympathetic nature, has been engaged in just such a profession that has to give some pain before one is entirely freed from suffering, but experience has told those who have had to come under his care that the least possible pain has been endured, with the best results, and the high position he holds in his profession has been gained by 25 years of hard work, study and observation.

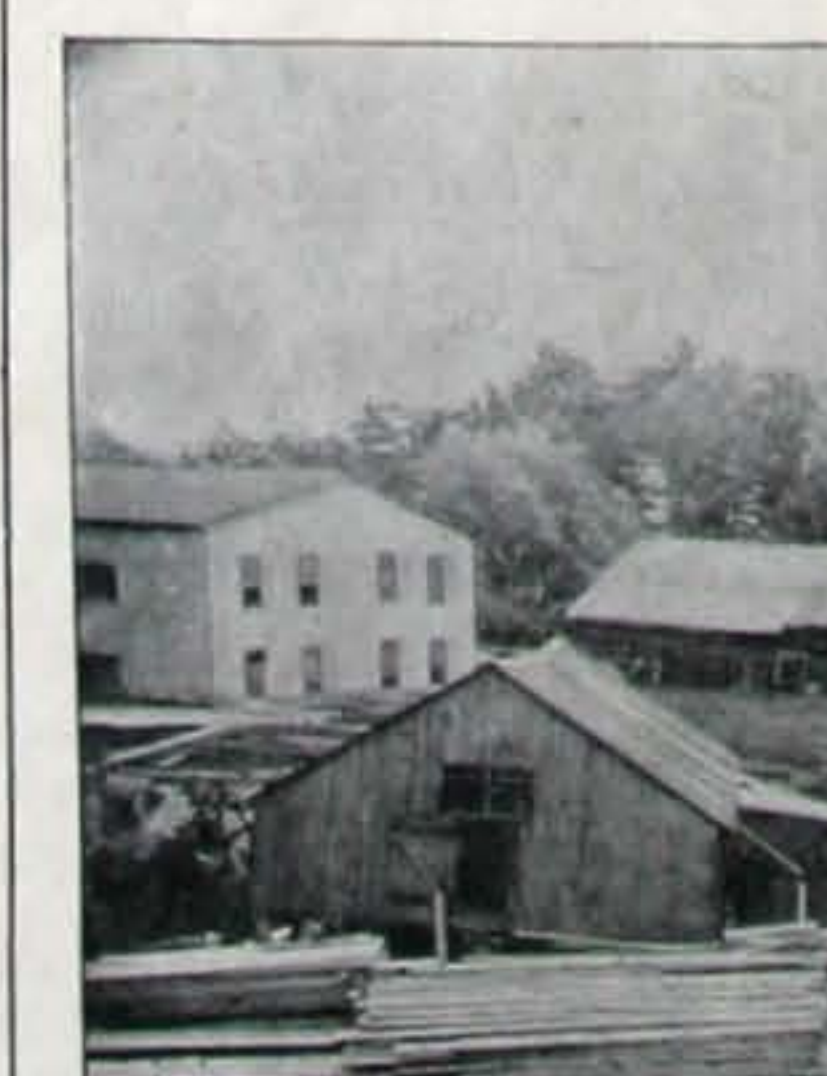

MARLATT & ARMSTRONG'S TANNERY.

PROPOSED NEW SUMMER HOTEL.

MARLATT & ARMSTRONG'S TANNERY.

MARLATT & ARMSTRONG'S TANNERY.

